WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., questioned the veracity of Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana today in a stormy Senate session over the Kennedy administration's bogged-down communications satellite bill.

Morse, one of the leaders of a filibuster against the measure, said, "I do not believe the majority leader."

At another point Morse challenged the accuracy of a statement by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., the Democratic whip, or assistant leader.

At issue was an assertion by Morse that he was denied the right to state why he objected to a unanimous consent request Mansfield made during last week's debate and Mansfield's account of what took place.

When Morse said he didn't believe Mansfield, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican leader, asserted that Morse had put "the veracity of the majority leader at issue" and invoked a Senate rule against reflection on fellow senators.

Mansfield told Dirksen he appreciated but didn't need protection. Bristling with anger, Mansfield added that each senator could form his own judgment as to Morse's accusation.

Earlier, Morse directly disputed an account Humphrey gave of a warning Humphrey made last week that some senators might lose their seats if the Senate doesn't get along with its business.

Morse insisted Humphrey "took the crack at" opponents of the satellite communications bill and suggested they would be in trouble at the polls in November.

In measured tones, Morse said Mansfield and Humphrey are no longer his majority leader and party whip and "I shall never again look to them for any protection of my rights in the Senate."

He said that Mansfield knew "and I charge" that he (Mansfield) was in a "bad position."

Faces Charge of Murder

MARKED TREE, Ark. (AP) — Eugene Brown, 35, a Marked Tree Negro, was bound over Monday to Pointsett Circuit Court on a charge of murdering his half-brother at a Marked Tree cafe Sunday morning.

Chief Deputy Ray Holmes said the two argued at the cafe and scuffled. He said Brown left the cafe, went to his car and returned with a .22 caliber pistol.

Holmes said C. F. Robinson, 28, also a Marked Tree Negro, was shot once in the chest. Both men were farm laborers.

Holmes said Brown surrendered without resistance following the shooting.

Roundup of Death Drug Has Started

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York City has reported what may be the nation's first infant death involving the drug thalidomide, suspected culprit of new-born babies.

And an Arizona television star has been turned down by a judge in her attempt to get a legal abortion because she fears her child may be born deformed as a result of her taking the drug.

As these developments were recorded Monday, the American Medical Association launched comprehensive research to try to determine what the sedative-acting drug does to unborn infants.

A congressional hearing was set for Wednesday to look into what one senator called indications of "serious communication weaknesses" involving information on the drug's suspected crippling power.

The announcement came on the heels of a report by the Food and Drug Administration that thalidomide pills had been distributed to doctors in 39 states and the District of Columbia. They were not sold commercially.

In one of the states, the New York City Health Department said a 37-year-old Queens woman, who reportedly took 90 thalidomide pills before and during pregnancy, gave birth July 21 to a deformed baby which lived only about 40 minutes.

In Phoenix, Ariz. Superior Court Judge Yale McFate dismissed a suit by television personality Sherri Finkbine who sought to legalize the abortion she had planned.

"Miss Sherri," star of a Phoenix kiddie show, took thalidomide, which has been blamed for malformation of thousands of new-born infants, mostly in Europe. Mrs. Finkbine and her husband said they didn't want to risk such a birth.

The couple said today they would go elsewhere to "a more favorable legal climate" to seek an abortion.

All 50 states prohibit abortions, Arizona, and some others, allow exceptions only if the life of the mother is endangered.

The judge noted that Arizona law concerning abortion was not challenged in Mrs. Finkbine's suit. He said the plaintiff sought only to have the court determine that a "miscarriage" was necessary to save Mrs. Finkbine's life.

McFate added that the suit contained no controversy and therefore his court had no jurisdiction in the matter.

In New York, the city's acting health commissioner said the woman whose deformed baby died had taken thalidomide on the advice of a Park Avenue psychiatrist who had ordered the drug from a pharmacy in Germany.

In Chicago, the American Medical Association said it assigned its council on drugs to do the research on thalidomide. The drug has been under clinical evaluation since 1956 the AMA said, but it hopes the council's study will provide information on congenital malformations and that "appropriate measures will be developed to safeguard our population."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., whose Senate Government Operations subcommittee will open hearings on thalidomide, made the comment on "serious communication weaknesses" involving the drug.

Humphrey, the subcommittee's chairman, said hearing witnesses will include Dr. Frances Kelsey, who is the Food and Drug Administration physician who blocked commercial distribution of thalidomide in this country after being alerted to its potential danger by what the senator called her "chance reading" of a British Medical Journal article.

PCA Loans Are at a New High

Farm loans made by the Nashville Production Credit Association the past six months show an increase of nearly $3,000,000 over the period for the previous year, the mid-year report reveals, Manager Edward Sharp said here this week.

The PCA serves farmers in seven counties, including Howard, Hempstead, Nevada, Pike, Sevier, Clark and Hot Springs.

Most of the loans were made in Howard County. A total of 429 loans were made for $3,065,885.28 the first six months, an increase from the 306 loans for $2,145,265.44 last year.

Officers are maintained by the PCA in Nashville — headquarters De Queen, Murfreesboro, Hope, Prescott, Arkadelphia and Malvern.

Shelter Bill Rejected by House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has rejected President Kennedy's request for $568 million to launch a fallout shelter program but approved another $80.5 million for other civil defense projects.

The House upheld its Appropriations Committee which had recommended removing Kennedy's $568,755,000 shelter program request from the $1.15-billion omnibus bill financing 26 federal agencies.

Kennedy had asked the funds to begin a program of shelter construction, research and development under the Department of Defense. He also had asked $41,455,000 for stockpiling of medical supplies by the Public Health Service but the House voted only $5.5 million.

The House approved $10 million for Civil Defense research and study and $65 million to continue the present Civil Defense program.

In all, the House trimmed about a billion dollars from various administration requests. But it still wound up voting $2 billion more than the same agencies got in the last fiscal year. Most of the increase—$1,972,365,000—is for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Text Book Changes in Hope Schools

There will be only two changes in text books used in Hope High School during the coming school year. The 10th grade World History books will be changed to "Our World History" by Black.

The senior math course consisting of a semester each of solid geometry and trigonometry will be replaced by a full year college preparatory course consisting of units in solid geometry, trigonometry, analytic geometry, calculus and statistics. This course is being included in the curriculum to give a broader background in mathematics to potential college students who plan to major in engineering, medicine or mathematics.

Ninth grade students are advised to buy the 1961 edition of "Building Citizenship" the high school civics text as this edition is the only one that will be used during the coming school year.

U. S. Plans to Continue High Altitude Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States strongly indicated today that its high altitude nuclear tests in the Pacific will be continued.

An announcement from the Atomic Energy Commission and the Department of Defense reported substantial damage to the Johnston Island launching pad for the rockets that propel the nuclear test devices into the skies, as a result of the failure of a launching effort July 25.

It said several weeks will be needed to repair the launching site and prepare it for "the remaining high altitude tests in the Dominic series."

Accordingly, the announcement said, the restricted area around Johnston Island has been temporarily disestablished. It added: "An announcement of the next event and declaration of an appropriate test area will be made in advance, as has been the practice in the past."

Officials said, however, that the final decision on whether to go ahead with the trials is up to President Kennedy.

Today's announcement means that the technical staff of the AEC and military are getting the pad in shape for use if and when the overriding policy decision to go on with at least one more high altitude shot is made.

Some officials indicate it might be eight weeks or even longer before repairs could be completed because of the substantial damage done when the Thor missile was destroyed while still in its launching position.

Maj. Gen. Alfred D. Starbird, chief of Joint Task Force 8, arrived in Washington late last week and participated in the discussions which led to decisions to rebuild the pad.

The general was still in Washington today.

FBI to Hear Complaints at Morrilton

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation said today it would send agents to Morrilton this morning to hear a complaint by Gene Wiggs, editor of the Morrilton Democrat, that representatives of a senatorial candidate were not allowed near polling places.

Roy K. Moore, special agent in charge of the FBI office in Little Rock, said the FBI would hear complaints by any citizen.

Wiggs said that representatives of Winston Chandler of Little Rock, who opposes Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., for the Democratic nomination, appeared at Morrilton polls was watchers but were told they could not get within 50 feet of the ballot boxes.

Wiggs' complaint came after the Justice Department denied Monday his request for federal poll watchers. The department said it lacks jurisdiction.

Wiggs said the representatives were turned back because of a law construction issued by Chancellor Wiley Bean last week that only voters and election officials could be within 50 feet of voting places.

Edward Gordon, chairman of the Conway County Democratic Central Committee, said in a statement that he had investigated absentee voting in his county and had found no irregularities.

Wiggs and three gubernatorial candidates had called for an investigation.

Wiggs said some Morrilton precincts had not opened at 9 a. m. today.

The Justice Department handed its decision Monday to Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark.

United Fund Needs More Money

In a recent meeting United Fund directors met in the First National Bank community room and discussed closing out the 1962 budget.

It was decided the president should appoint a committee to rework cards and determine if more money could be raised. Funds are about 40 per cent short of the budget and the board felt that many prospects haven't been contacted.

The group appealed for anyone having a card to please turn it in to the Chamber of Commerce Office. This year $159.49 has been spent on cancer patients who couldn't get help from other sources.

Other organizations receiving money from the United Fund include Salvation Army, Red Cross, Girl and Boy Scouts, underprivileged children, Cerebral Palsy and others.

Money is sorely needed and President Clifford Franks urges that all prospect cards be sent in.

About Million Bushels of Grain Missing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Agriculture Department investigators have found shortages of about a million bushels in government-owned grain—mostly corn and soybeans—stored in commercial warehouses in the Midwest. The value of the vanished grain was about $1.1 million.

The shortages are the aggregate of 11 individual instances previously reported. In eight of the cases, the government has asked federal courts to appoint receivers for the warehouses and to issue restraining orders against further handling of grain by the warehousemen.

More than two billion bushels of government-owned surplus grains are stored in commercial warehouses and in government bins.

Officials said that additional shortages may be found in the weeks ahead as declining grain supplies are pulling much grain out of storage for commercial use. The declining supplies reflect cutbacks in production and increases in use, both at home and abroad.

Officials expressed confidence that no financial losses would result for the government. Many small losses occur from time to time, reflecting shrinkage in the weight of the grain during storage as well as handling losses.

Both of these are normal and do not represent wrongdoing on the part of the warehouse operator.

The eight cases on which court action has been taken included: Blissfield, Mich.—Basil & Sons, Inc., shortage of about 273,000 bushels of corn.

Monroe, Mich.—Basil Haddix & Sons Inc., shortage of about 223,000 bushels of corn.

Durand, Mich.—Basil Haddix & Sons Inc., doing business as M & S Elevator, shortage of 26,000 bushels of corn.

Woodbury, Mich.—Woodbury Grain Co., shortage of 97,745 bushels of corn.

Decatur, Mich.—Michigan Grain Co., shortage of about 14,000 bushels of corn.

Kenton, Ohio—Kenton Grain & Machinery Co., Inc., shortage of about 114,000 bushels of corn.

Forest, Ohio—Forest Grain & Supply Co., shortage of about 115,000 bushels of corn.

Edison, Ohio—Morrow Supply Co., Inc., shortage of about 4,888 bushels of corn and 17,866 bushels of soybeans.

Vall, Iowa — Allen T. North Grain Co., shortage of about 96,000 bushels of corn.

Suspended by the department ineligible for storage of government grain are the Iowa City Feed & Grain Service, Inc., Iowa City; and the Farmers Elevator Co., Mason City, Iowa.

The 11th case is that of Adolph Welsh, doing business as Pawnee Elevator, Pawnee, Ill. Shortages of corn and soybeans were found but the operator has made restitution. The department is making a further investigation.

Court Holds Fate in Case of Abortion

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A Supreme Court judge holds the key to the fate of a pretty Phoenix
television star and the unborn
baby she fears will be malformed.
Judge Yale McFate is scheduled to decide today whether the Maricopa County attorney and the attorney general of Arizona will be defendants in Mrs. Robert L.
Finkbine's suit for court approval
of a proposed abortion.
"Miss Sherri," a Mrs. Fink-bine is known on "Romper Room"
her children's show, says she has taken thalidomide, blamed for the births of malformed children.
If the judge rules against Mr.
and Mrs. Finkbine and co-complainant Good Samaritan Hospital, the cause will reach a dead
end. Attorneys for the plaintiffs
say that with no defendants there is no case.

But if Judge McFate says either or both officials are proper defendants, the case is expected to proceed. The judge asked Friday that all papers necessary for
a hearing be filed by today.
Mrs. Finkbine's attorneys, Howard P. Leibow and Walter Chel-
fetz, will try to prove that her
condition is such that an abortion
is justified. State law allows abortions only when an expectant
mother's life is in danger.
An abortion, the suit states, is necessary for preservation of Mrs. Finkbine's health and the saving of her life.

Mrs. Finkbine, 30, revealed her plight one week ago.
She said she had taken some
tranquilizers containing thalidomide.
The drug was obtained by her husband, a 31-year-old high school teacher, while he chaperoned a group of students in England last summer.
Mrs. Finkbine told her doctor
about taking the drug after reading a newspaper article reporting
that thalidomide had been blamed
for thousands of malformed infants in Europe, Canada and Australia. A three-member panel of doctors advised the abortion.
Mrs. Finkbine, who has four children, has taken a leave of absence from her job and is in seclusion.
Since the Finkbine problem became public, other cases of thalidomide
deformations have been reported. It was announced last week that a Great Neck, N.Y.,
woman who took the drug gave
birth to deformed twins.

City Out of Water for Ten Hours

BAYONNE, N.J. (AP)—A break
in a water main left this city of 74,000 without any water for almost 10 hours today.
Two auxiliary lines were set up
to pass the break.
The State Department of Health
said all water flowing through the auxiliary lines should be boiled as a health precaution.
The city's only hospital cur-
tailed functions and canceled major surgery. Emergency tank
trucks and fire equipment were dispatched from neighboring municipalities.
It was the second time in three months that Bayonne's water was cut off by a break in pipes that carry its supply from Wanauque,
North Jersey's largest reservoir.
A Water Department task force
detected a break in a main in nearby North Arlington about 8:30
this morning, seven hours after a loss of pressure was reported.

Celebrezze Takes Oath as Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP)—Anthony
J. Celebrezze took the oath of office as secretary of the Health, Education and Welfare department today in a colorful ceremony
in the White House rose garden.
After the oath-taking was completed, he told newsmen "I'm going to work right this minute."
President Kennedy stood by the side of the man who quit as mayor
of Cleveland, Ohio, to become the first replacement in Kennedy's Cabinet since the chief executive
took office in January last year.
Members of the Celebrezze family and several Ohio members of Congress were among those witnessing the ceremony. Also attending were Celebrezze's successor as Cleveland mayor, Ralph S. Lochner, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas V.
H. Vail. Vail is a vice president of the Forest City Publishing Co.,
which publishes the Cleveland
Plain Dealer.

About 50 Brazilian students who had just talked with the President
remained to watch at Celebrezze's invitation.
"The President said that this was Celebrezze's most important assignment in a very busy lifetime,
and that the words in his new title
indicate the responsibilities and
difficult job confronting him."
"I think the administration will
be enhanced by his vitality, sense
of purpose and public commitment," Kennedy said.
The President remarked that Celebrezze's work as a member of the Ohio Legislature and election
as mayor of Cleveland by overwhelming majorities indicates the
regard people have for him.
Celebrezze told the chief executive that "it's a tremendous challenge" he faces.
"It is my wish fully to fulfill the

Denies Asking Price to End Strike

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—An ousted
union official denies demanding $5,000 as the price to use his influence to end a strike holding up
work on 11 nuclear submarines.
Arthur Vars, deposed president
of the Boilermakers local at the Groton, Conn., submarine shipyard, voiced the denial Monday in unsworn testimony before a closed
meeting of the Senate Investigations subcommittee.

The subcommittee's chairman,
Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.,
said the senators heard conflicting testimony on the matter at
an informal meeting Monday.
McClellan said the question is:
Whether Vars demanded, or
was offered, $5,000 and other benefits as an out-of-court settlement
of a lawsuit.
Or whether Vars demanded the
money for his support of a proposed strike settlement at the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp.
Vars insists it was an offer to settle a lawsuit he had filed challenging his union expulsion. He had been expelled both as president and as a union member on charges of irregularities.
Vars said they were "trumped-
up charges" and that he is being offered re-instatement.
McClellan, without naming any
names, told the Senate earlier
Monday that his subcommittee
should hold formal hearings into
what he called allegations of a
payoffs demand in the settlement
negotiations. Vars later appeared before the subcommittee, saying
he hoped to "set the record
straight about rumors concerning $5,000."

Vars contended "it's fantastic to say that I had anything to do with the strike. They're looking for a scapegoat... the men themselves voted for a strike."

Katanga Trouble

LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo (AP)—
International efforts for peaceful unification of the Congo appeared to hinge today on Katanga
President Moise Tshombe's reaction to proposals for a new constitution, unveiled Sunday by federal Premier Cyrille Adoula.
The constitution would grant local autonomy to the provinces, a concession to Tshombe's demand
for a looser central government.
There was no immediate reaction from Elizabethville, the Katanga capital, to Adoula's proposals.

imously on two points — that the
fifth term was the main issue of the campaign and that Faubus
would fall short of the clear majority of votes he needs to avoid a runoff on Aug. 14.

Faubus has been in only one
runoff — in 1954 when he unseated
Gov. Francis Cherry. Since then
his reelection, without a runoff,
has been apparent within three
hours after the polls closed.

Faubus, who served as Mc-Math's executive aide in 1950-51
and as highway director in 1952
before Cherry swept McMath out of office but the old McMath machine together again and rode it
to victory in 1954 while McMath
was running a losing race against
Sen. John L. McClellan.

McMath and Faubus broke in 1957 when McMath criticized Faubus
for using National Guard
troops to block integration of Little Rock Central High, precipitating
the 1957-58 integration crisis.

Faubus said the break came earlier, because he would not let McMath pull strings in the governor's office.

The old association between McMath and Faubus played a minor role in the campaign. Faubus
referred to the highway audit investigation during the McMath administration and McMath noted
that Faubus was his liaison man
with the Highway Department or highway director during the period
which was investigated.

But midway in the campaign,
Faubus singled out McMath and
reserved his most resounding blasts for him. In the closing weeks Faubus said the race was between him and McMath and
other candidates were running
merely to split the vote.

Alford promptly charged that Faubus was trying to get McMath
into the runoff because he knew McMath could not be beaten while Alford could not.

Many sources felt Alford had as good a chance as McMath to make
a runoff, if there is one.

Faubus, Alford, McMath and Coffelt closed their campaigns
with television shows Monday
night.

Alford dwelled on the threat of dictatorship if Faubus wins a fifth term and said, "Power inevitably
results in abuse of the rights of the people."

Faubus, besides his customary
praise of his administration announced that the state will get
two new industries, one in east
Arkansas and one in a north central county, each employing about 400 persons.

McMath settled for rerunning
his campaign film, "A man for Arkansas."

Neither Whitten nor Cox was on television on election eve. Whitten
made a half a dozen conservative
appearances through Monday
night. Cox never went on television or radio.

Coffelt, who has crusaded
against liquor and gambling,
charged Monday night that Hot Springs gambling interests had
put money into every campaign
fund besides his own.

If elected, Coffelt said, he would dispatch State Police immediately
to close Hot Springs gaming establishments. He said no one had contradicted his early charge that gambling payoffs at Hot Springs
total $50,000 a month.

Faubus' opponents generally
agreed on assertions that the governor is controlled by Liquor,
gambling and utility interests and
that he has played politics with
welfare clients and state
employees.

On the positive side, McMath
promised to see that the state
collects interest on some $40 million in reserve fund deposits and
to promote an accelerated program of rural road building.

Alford said he would eliminate collection of state income tax on
money paid in federal income tax.
Whitten promised to work for a constitutional convention. He also came out for university status for Arkansas State College.

Besides moving against gambling, Coffelt said he would order utility rates reduced by 10 percent and make a more equitable distribution of state educational
aid funds.

Campaign tactics varied widely.
Faubus stuck to the techniques
which have served him so well —
extensive, exhausting stumping
and frequent use of television.

McMath concentrated on handshaking and television. He made nightly five-minute broadcast six nights a week during the last three weeks of the campaign.

Alford came up with a band-
wagon and a gospel quartet and
ran an old-time stumping campaign. He also appeared frequently on television.

Whitten did not stump. He made
hand shaking trips and spoke at
most of the major multi-candidate rallies. His television time was limited until the final week.

POSTAGE POTENTIAL—
What power stamps have,
particularly if they're attached to 11,000 letters of protest. Feminine fans deluged TV moguls with walls
about the demise of "Hong Kong," the show starring actor Rod Taylor. He will return to TV in the fall in a show of somewhat similar
format but bearing the title:
"Dateline: San Francisco."
Taylor is shown reading his
"command performance" mail.

field) "denied my right" to
explain his objection to the unanimous consent request.

Mansfield jumped up to say that "the senator from Oregon can charge me with anything he wants
to" and read from last week's
record, and outlined what he said
was the position he took at the time.

It was at this point Morse declared "I don't believe the majority leader."

Things quieted down after that
and Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., took over the chores for the fil-
lusterers with the resumption of
a speech against the bill.

Sen. George A. Smathers, D-
Fla., assistant Democratic floor
leader, said a closure petition—to cut off debate—would be filed today.

This would force a showdown
on the motion to bring the bill formally before the Senate. However, it's been 35 years since the Senate last agreed to limit debate
and thus force a vote on a measure.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., one
of the Democratic liberals trying
to kill the satellite bill which would create a private corporation to own and operate the space
network, told reporters he was confident the closure move would
be beaten.

It requires the votes of two-
thirds of the senators present.
The filibuster group brushed aside a warning Monday that they may be endangering the November election chances of their Democratic colleagues and pressed on
with their speeches.

Gore held the floor five hours
Gordon, the incumbent, and Wallace Hurley of Camden.
Secretary of State: Milton Willis of Van Buren, Avon Phillips

cumbent, and W. B. McSwain of Little Rock.

Little Rock and Johnny Milchum

the incumbent, and Paul Henshaw
of Batesville.

up to recess time Monday night
after a session running 11 hours
and 42 minutes.

Sen. Maurice B. Neuberger, D-
Ore., spoke for 4 1/2 hours, slipping
out of her high-heeled shoes and
standing in her stocking feet in the final minutes.

She charged that under the bill
billions of tax dollars spent in research and development would be turned over to a "private monopoly" dominated by American Telephone & Telegraph Co. The fil-luster group wants the satellite
corporation to be government-
owned.

The bill would establish a corporation owned half and half by communications companies and the public through stock purchases.

The measure, proposed by President Kennedy, has been passed by the House and approved by the Senate Space and Commerce committees.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., who
advocates government ownership
of the space network, has proposed that the Senate postpone
action until after the November elections.

But there were indications of
strong party backing for the belief
expressed by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., that such a delay
would damage the Democrats in the congressional election.

Any showdown on closure would
be certain to provide some politically embarrassing moments. Of 30 Democratic senators publicly trying to kill the bill, five would have to reverse their usual stands
to vote against closure.

These include some of the liberals who have been most active
in advocating changes in the rules
to make it easier to end fillusters. They are Morse, Mrs.
Neuberger, Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania, Ernest Gruening of Alaska and Quentin N. Burdick of North Dakota.

Says Only the Insane Has War Desire

WASHINGTON (AP)—President
Kennedy told a group of Brazilian graduate students today that anyone who desires war in these days
is insane.

Kennedy made the comment in reply to a student's statement that
while the United States talks
peace, it makes preparations for
war. The student said that instead of war preparations, the government should be orienting the conscience of the people for peace.

Kennedy replied that he had made it very clear in the past that there would be no winner of the next war if nuclear weapons are used.

Furthermore, Kennedy said, he was not aware of any action taken by the United States since World War II that was not in the direction of security.

He emphasized that the United States has long sought a nuclear
test ban and general disarmament
with inspection safeguards.

Kennedy addressed the students
on the White House south lawn,
and submitted to questioning.

The first questioner asked what
would be the United States' reaction to socialization of production
in Brazil to improve living standards.

Kennedy answered by saying
tonight 64 to 70. High Wednesday 84 to 90. Thursday partly cloudy and warm with chance of afternoon thundershowers.

Arkansas Player Is Defeated

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Kay
Mitchell of Texarkana, Ark., was defeated in the first round of the International Jaycee girls tennis
tournament Monday by Nancy Falkenberg of Fort Walton Beach,
Fla., 6-1, 6-0.
Miss Falkenberg is the tourna-
ment's second-seeded player.

An Estimated 400,000 Might Vote

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas votes today on whether
Gov. Orval E. Faubus, storm center of the 1967 Little Rock school integration crisis, should have a fifth two-year term.

An estimated 375,000 to 400,000
electors were to choose among Faubus and five opponents in a Democratic primary in which the fifth term was the overriding issue.

Opposing Faubus were Sid Mc-Math, a former governor who launched Faubus' career in state politics; U.S. Rep. Dale Alford,
a congressman without a district;
Vernon Whitten, a Mount Holly
businessman; Kenneth Coffelt of Little Rock, a crusading attorney,
and David A. Cox, a farmer from Weiner.

These men all contended that reelection of Faubus would create a dictatorship in the state. That cry drowned out all other issues
— including segregation, which Faubus used so successfully in 1958 and 1960.

Faubus' camp predicted confidently that he would poll 58 percent of the vote. He got slightly less than 58 percent in 1960.

Woman Dies, But Baby Is Delivered

BENTONVILLE, Ark. (AP)—A healthy baby girl was delivered in Bentonville last night 10 minutes after the 18-year-old mother had died of a gunshot wound in the chest.

The baby is doing fine today. But authorities say there are few clues to who killed the mother, Mrs. Myrna Joyce Red.

Deputy Sheriff R. D. Arnold said today Mrs. Mary Frances Traylor, who lived across the street from Mrs. Red, heard the young housewife's scream, then a shot.

Mrs. Traylor called her brother's ambulance service, which in quick order notified the sheriff's office, the hospital and dispatched an ambulance to the home. Mrs. Red was shot in the chest with a .22 caliber pistol, Arnold said.

Arnold said the baby, a healthy six pounder, was delivered 40 minutes after the shooting. Mrs. Red died within a half-hour after she was shot, he said.

Arnold said today Mrs. Red's husband, Ronald, a truck driver, was in Bentonville, but not at home, at the time of the shooting.

1,800 U. S. Marines to Leave Thia

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—The last 1,800 U. S. Marines have left Thailand but America's Navy chief says they can move back just as fast if needed to defend the country against the Communists.

Departure of the Marines Sunday left the defense of Thailand to the 2,000-man U.S. 27th Infantry Wolfhounds, skilled in jungle fighting, and the 90,000-man Thai army, U.S.-trained and equipped.

The American forces moved into Thailand in May when pro-Communist guerrillas in Laos had swept to the Thai border. That was the guerrillas' last big push before the formation of a coalition regime pledged to take Laos out of the cold war.

Thai officials made plain Sunday they don't have much confidence in the ability of Laos to steer a neutral course and prevent Communist infiltration into Thailand and South Viet Nam.

Adm. George W. Anderson, U.S. chief of naval operations, said in Bangkok that the Marines could return to Thailand "with utmost celerity whenever needed."

The Marines left their base at Udorn, 40 miles below the Laos border, and were flown out to Okinawa.

The Marines' departure obviously was linked to the 14-nation agreement signed in Geneva last week guaranteeing the independence and neutrality of Laos. The withdrawal apparently signified a lessening of concern in Washington over the security of Thailand's border.

Request for U. S. Marshals Is Denied

MORRILLTON, Ark. (AP)—A request for federal marshals to police polling places in Conway County.

The couple had been married one year. The infant is their first child.

Mrs. Verdie Donold Brown

Miss Bobbie Rea Garrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Garrett of Hope and Verdie Donold Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Brown of Hope, exchanged wedding vows at 4 p.m. Sunday, July 22 in Unity Baptist Church of Hope.

Elder C. L. Roberts performed the double ring ceremony. Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Elmer Brown, aunt of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length dress of silk organza over satin. The bodice featured a scalloped neckline. Flowers of organza and seed pearls were scattered on the bodice, as well as the skirt, which was gathered at a pointed waist. She wore a fingertip veil of illusion attached to a pearl tiara. The bride's bouquet was of fleur d'amour centered with a glamelia.

Mrs. R. W. Hope Jr. of Austin, Texas was her cousin's matron of honor. Flower girls were Melanie and Becky Garrett, cousins of the bride.

Daniel Brown of Hope served his twin brother as best man. Ushers were Buddy Ball of Harrison and Ray Duke of Hope.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the Rose Room of the Diamond Cafe. Members of the house party were Mrs. Elmer Brown, Mrs. Don Hightower, Miss Sharon House, Mrs. Steve Sneider and Mrs. Burgess Garrett. Mrs. Daniel Brown was in charge of the bride's book.

After a wedding trip the couple will be at home in Hope.

Buys Streetcars

VERACRUZ, Mexico (AP)—Vacationer Gerald Brooks of Cleveland, Ohio, Sunday bought two of this city's streetcars, which have been operating continuously since 1907. The price was not disclosed.

Brooks said the cars will be shipped to a museum he has in Cleveland's Columbia Park.

ty during the Tuesday primary was denied today.

Gene Wirges, Morrilton newspaper editor who has been in a running feud with Conway County political leaders, said he wired Atty. Gen. Robert P. Kennedy, Federal Bureau of Investigation director and Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., Sunday asking that 30 federal marshals and enough FBI agents be sent to patrol every polling place in the county.

Both the FBI and the Department of Justice said today they do not sent officers to police polling places unless they have a specific complaint of violation of federal laws.

McClellan acknowledged receipt of a telegram on the subject of sending marshals to police the Conway County election, but declined to reveal its contents. McClellan said only that the telegram would receive "appropriate attention."

Wirges said the telegrams reported that violence in Conway County was imminent and that it was imperative to secure a state Supreme Court injunction overruling a declaratory judgment of Chancellor Wiley Bean Friday that no one except voters and poll officials can go near the polls.

Wirges contends that the law provides for challengers to be at the polls. Bean said Saturday he was not interpreting only reading state statutes on voting.

Atty. Gen. Frank Holt said Saturday his office had been asked last Thursday for a ruling on election laws, but the request had come from a person not qualified to receive an opinion.

Memphis Church Group Splits Up

MEMPHIS (AP) — A feud involving the pastor of giant Bellevue Baptist Church and part of his congregation has resulted in the organization of a new church.

Formation of "Second Baptist Church" was announced Sunday night. D. B. Ray, chairman of trustees, said more than 100 families signed charter membership cards.

Most of the members were among those who led a fight to oust Dr. Ramsey Pollard from the Bellevue pulpit last December, losing by a vote of 1,190 to 808.

Pollard, 59, former president of the 9-million member Southern Baptist Convention, drew accusations ranging from arrogance to cigar smoking.

Ray said a purchase contract had been signed for an old church building that will house the new congregation.

Pollard was not available for comment.

Convicted Spy Loses Again

JERUSALEM (AP) — Convicted Soviet spy Robert A. Soblen has lost one more bid in his desperate fight to escape life imprisonment in the United States. The Israeli government denied him an immigrant's visa again Sunday.

Soblen, now in a London jail still has two moves in reserve in Britain before he can be expelled from the country; and his lawyer here said he also plans to appeal the Israeli cabinet's decision to the supreme court.

Soblen, 61, jumped $100,000 bail in New York and fled to Israel in June.

DOROTHY DIX

Her Son-In-Law a Taker

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I know what love means and knowing, worry about my daughter. Her father and I lived for one another all 34 years of our married life. Since his death I keep house for our son. The daughter, recently married, lives in another city. Her husband is all take and no give. I'm sure my daughter financed the wedding and is still helping—having kept her job and apartment. It's a queer arrangement. He's a widower with a couple of grown children, a small town doctor's practice and only spends weekends with his bride of two weeks. He has never given her a single present, a contrast to my husband who, though not wealthy, never came home without some little gift for me.

My son-in-law has had meal after meal in my home but rarely a flower nor thank-you box or candy for me. My daughter is kind where he is concerned and this bothers me for she has looks, personality and brains. When she introduced us, I asked afterwards, "What do you see in him?" Looking like a moonstruck cat, she replied, "He needs me." Now comes the last straw. My sister is having our annual family get-together at her beach house and my daughter has asked her brother and me to take her husband in our car. That's all right but—she wants us to put him up for the night. This would inconvenience us no end. Frankly, I don't want him. Would it be to dread him if I refused? —Upset Mother worse, your daughter has brought this man into the family. Treat him as a member and whether or not he brings gifts, welcome him to your home. Find some place for him to sleep, even if it's on the floor. Go through the motions of being hospitable. To do less would hurt her more than him. Be charitable. Maybe he just hasn't the money to give gifts. Maybe he doesn't know how. Some people only learn the social amenities late in life. If your daughter chose to help him that is her affair. And, if she thinks him a grand guy, her very belief could make him one. Back her up!

Dear Helen: I'm a simple German immigrant, one of thousands in this country and already here six years. There are people, people, everywhere but for them I might as well not exist. At 25, a fairly nice young man should have accumulated friends. Not me. Maybe I'm too shy. They say "Thoughtfulness makes friendships and thoughtfulness keeps them." In my line of work (I'm a chef), I give special thought to my cooking, hoping by some extra touch or new flavor to attract friends. So far, no results. The customers eat and run. —Lonely.

Dear Lonely: You're on the right track and sooner or later it will lead to loyal friends. No creative chef ever lacks a following. Keep on dreaming up new dishes and you'll wind up with a whole bevy of devoted fans; per- Continued on Page Four

Dear Doleful: Youth is humorless. Your wife either lacks maturity or hasn't had the experiences which develop real humor, born of suffering. It is the dividing line between laughter and tears. ## Facts of Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's highlight in history: This day in 1619 marked the beginning of representative government in America. The first representative legislature, called the House of Burgesses, assembled on that day at Jamestown, Va.

On this date In 1898, Germany's famed Iron Chancellor Bismarck died.

In 1907, Buses with French engines and British bodies replaced horse-drawn vehicles on New York's Fifth Avenue.

In 1909, the first airplane was acquired by the War Department. It was built by the Wright Brothers to meet military specifications.

In 1942, President Roosevelt signed a bill authorizing the creation of a women's reserve in the Navy.

Ten years ago . . . Prime Minister Winston Churchill won a vote of confidence in Parliament on his spending plans for rearmament.

Five years ago . . . the Maritime Commission announced plans for building the nation's first atomic-powered merchant ship.

One year ago . . . the Communist Party in Moscow outlined its new program - the first since the Lenin program of 1919 and predicting world communism in the present generation.

Rifles Raised at the Border

BERLIN (AP) - East and West Berlin guards with raised rifles faced each other across the wall today as police of the Communist regime nabbed a refugee 10 yards from the barrier.

No shots were fired, West Berlin police said.

West Berlin police at 4:15 a.m. spotted a man making his way toward the wall from the Communist side at Lohmuen Platz, across from the American sector. They saw the guards chasing him and heard them order him to halt.

He had almost reached the barrier when the East border guards caught him.

They landed at Le Havre and went to Paris.

The next few nights were busy with dining and dancing and the sights of Paris. Brian's money was running short, for a pseudo-millionaire spends money differently than ordinary tourists.

He realized that there was no time to lose. He called Ethel and asked if he could see her.

She invited him over for tea, and was waiting for him in a pale, green gown that would have made her desirable even if there had been no dollar signs floating around her.

He told her of his love immediately and asked the eternal question.

"Oh, Brian. Of course I'll marry you, honey!" she replied throwing her arms around his neck and kissing him. "You know I love you. But - well, there is something I must confess darling.

"Before Doris and I started on this trip, we decided to practice a little deception. You see, Doris is a wealthy widow and she has always been afraid someone might try to marry her for her money - especially on a trip like this.

"I was her maid and we decided to change places and pretend that she was the maid and I, the rich widow. That way whoever courted her would love her for herself. But Doris met a man on the ship to whom she is now engaged and there is no need to masquerade. And since you will matter to you, my darling, that I am penniless."

He pulled away roughly, screaming, "Why you contemptible little fraud. Leading me on the way you did. Make no difference to me? Do you think I'd marry a penniless servant?"

After he had gone, banging the door, Ethel smothered her uncontrollable laughter in a sofa pillow; then rang for Doris.

"My little scheme worked beautifully, Doris," she said when the maid appeared. "He couldn't have hurried away faster - he practically flew."

"Yes," replied Doris. "I heard him screaming. It certainly is a good way to spot a fortune hunter. This must be the fourth or fifth one you've handled that way."

Ethel smiled happily. Thwarting fortune-hunters was almost as much fun as falling in love.

"Yes, Mrs. Harcourt," agreed Doris. "And now, shall I bring in the tea?"

TRIO ACTED Independent Faubus Says

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - Gov. Orval E. Faubus' Campaign headquarters asserted Monday that three leading segregationists acted independently of the Capital Citizens Council when they began criticizing Faubus recently.

Council President Amis Guthridge admitted readily that the anti-Faubus move was by a Committee to Maintain Segregation in Arkansas, of which he is chairman and not the council.

"But you cannot divorce us (Guthridge, Rev. Wesley Pruden and Dr. Malcolm Taylor, other committee leaders) from the Council," Guthridge said.

Guthridge said the committee would go on radio again tonight to detail how Faubus had betrayed the segregationist cause.

Faubus' headquarters issued a statement by William J. Ruck, a bakery owner and council board member, in which Ruck said the council had not discussed the election at recent meetings.

"These men are acting strictly on their own," Ruck said. "The most that Guthridge, Pruden and Taylor can hope to accomplish is to assist the cause of the strongest integrationist in the race, 'Sid McMath.'"

Guthridge said Ruck was elected to the board last December but he had missed the last several meetings. Ruck said he missed "One or two meetings" but he had information that the council had not endorsed a candidate.

"That is true," Guthridge said. "Neither has the committee endorsed a candidate. But all informed segregationists are opposing Gov. Faubus."

Robinson was picked up by police Saturday minutes after the robbery and one week after his escape from the federal correctional institute in Tallahassee, Fla.

Baseball Heads Into Final Countdown

By MIKE RATCHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The American League leading New York Yankees and the National League leading Los Angeles Dodgers head into the final stage of the 1962 baseball season today riding parallel lines toward the same objective.

And the big question remains: Can the two powerhouses continue their side-by-side march to an October meeting in the World Series with a doubtful status hovering over two of the game's brightest lights — swollen-kneed, Mickey Mantle and numb-fingered Sandy Koufax.

Mantle, whose multi-paged medical history covers his anatomy from head (concussions) to foot (osteomyelitis) and surrounds lots of the area in between, came up with a new entry Monday when he was forced to sit out the second All-Star game.

The latest injury to the Yankee slugger, involving the same thing as was hurt in May and kept him sidelined for a month, will keep Mantle idle for at least the three-game series that begins at Washington tonight and raises the curtain on the last third of the season.

Koufax, one of three pitchers to hurl a no-hitter this season, was heading for a strikeout record when the numb finger impaired his effectiveness. He'll be on the sidelines when the Dodgers resume action Wednesday night at Pittsburgh.

The Yankees, who like the Dodgers have held their place without a break since July 4 and took over the weekend, will send Bill Stafford, 16, against Claude Osteen, 5-7, of the Senators while Mantle looks on.

While the Yankees tackle Washington, the Angels will send Ed Garba 6-5, against Cleveland's Jim Perry, 8-8, in an effort to gain ground against a club that has lost 13 of its last 16 games. Minnesota's third-place Twins, 5½ behind, are at Baltimore in the only other game scheduled in either league.

In that one, Camilo Pascual, the American League's winningest pitcher with a 15-6 record, will test the tender elbow that forced him out of the All-Star classic. He'll face the Orioles' Jack Fisher, 2-5.

The Dodgers will be host to the fourth-place Pirates in the headliner of the Wednesday program that gets play under way again in the National League.

American Loop Wins Second All-Star Game

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The American League, behind the booming bats of Rocky Colavito, Leon Wagner and Pete Runnels, exploded the myth of National League superiority Monday, 9-4.

The usually self-controlled Ralph Houk, triumphant manager of the American League forces, did a poor job concealing his elation.

"Well, maybe this will shut those guys up once and for all," the Yankees' manager said. "All this talk about the National League being superior is bunk."

The National League put on a wretched performance before the 38,359 Wrigley Field fans, committing four physical misplays and a number of mental lapses, not to mention errant throws by seemingly tired performers.

The Nationals had 10 hits, as many as the Americans. But only one home run, by John Roseboro, to three for the victors, by Runnels, Colavito and Wagner.

The Americans fielded flawlessly and engineered two double plays to none for the Nationals.

Runnels' homer came in a pinch-hit role, tying the score at 1-1 in the third inning after the Nationals had scored first, tagging starter Dave Stenhouse of Washington for a single run in the second.

Art Mahaffey, the victim of Runnels' blow, also served a home run ball to Wagner, with a man on base in the fourth. There was no stopping the Americans after that.

Colavito's home run, with two on, came off Dick Farrell of Houston in the seventh, making it 7-1.

The only controversial play of the game occurred a few moments earlier. Following a walk to Brooks Robinson, Billy Moran hit a low drive to center field. Hank Aaron, who had replaced Willie Mays in center field for the Nationals, charged in fast and came up with the ball. Ken Burkhardt, umpiring at second base, ruled he had trapped the ball. One out later, Colavito crashed his three-run homer.

"I caught the ball and there was no two ways about it," said Aaron afterwards. "If I had trapped the ball I would have thrown to second and forced the other man. But I caught it and was the most surprised man in the world when he signaled safe."

Fred Hutchinson, the National League manager, said he thought Aaron had caught the ball and it had been ruled as such "the outcome might have been different."

Hutchinson used 25 of his 28 availables. Only pitchers Warren Spahn and Bob Purkey and infielder Jimmy Davenport saw no action. Houk used 20 players.

Asked why he started substituting as early as he did, Hutch said, "I wanted to get as many players in as I could. These guys are all good and it doesn't make too much difference who is in the game."

Houk kept three players in the game from start to end — outfielders Roger Maris and Rocky Colavito and first baseman Jim Gentile.

"No, I didn't do that intentionally," he said. "You forget that Mickey Mantle was hurt and I couldn't use him. Also, I didn't want to gamble with Al Kaline, who is just getting over a shoulder dislocation. This necessitated my moves."

The victory was the American League's second in the last eight All-Star games.

The Nationals won in Washington July 10, 3-1.

Big Field in Archery Meet

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — A field of 100 archers from nearly every state, plus Canada and Mexico, was expected to complete registration today for the 17th annual National Field Archery Association championship tournament at nearby Crystal Springs.

This will be the second year in a row the national meet has been held in Arkansas. Normally tournament sites are rotated.

Sponsoring the tournament is the Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce, with Will Poppin of Henryetta, Okla., acting as ring master.

NFAA President Richard Freeman of Midland, Mich., was to officially open the meet this morning with a short talk. First round matches started at 1 p.m.

The tournament, being held on the shores of Lake Ouachita, ends Friday.

Family Kidnap To Be Arraigned

EUREKA, Calif. (AP) — Lonnie A. Hancock, 42, who allegedly forced members of his family to accompany him to Arkansas, was to be arraigned today on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Sheriff William Pederson of Humboldt County, booked Hancock on the charge Monday. The sheriff said the charge arose from an accusation by Hancock's wife that the retired Air Force sergeant had held a gun on the family nearly three weeks.

Hancock, a 21-year veteran, was returned to California Monday in a chartered plane. His wife and four of their five children reportedly were in an undisclosed Ohio town visiting a relative.

Homer Twins Lonesome After Game

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Who would think home run heroes Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle would be lonesome in the corner of their dressing room after an All-Star baseball game?

It happened Monday after the American League trimmed the Nationals 9-4 in Wrigley Field. Homers did it. But they came from Rocky Colavito of Detroit, Pete Runnels of Boston and Leon Wagner of Los Angeles.

Mantle, who blasted 54 homers last year for the Yankees and has 21 this season, could not play in the All-Star parade because he re-injured his left knee in a game with the Chicago White Sox in New York Sunday.

"This was reason enough to be snubbed in the dressing room while the heroes of the game took their bows. But it was incongruous to see the twin fence busters of 1961 be more or less shunned."

Maris, who topped Babe Ruth with 61 homers, got only one hit, a ninth inning double. He was booed by some fans when he was batting and was heckled in the outfield. He sat almost in solitude in the dressing room.

A small group of reporters approached Maris as he sat sweating, munching on a sandwich and having a soft drink. His face was without expression. Answers to questions were robot-like.

"I thought the back end of white shirts in the bleachers in center field was very tough to hit against," he said in a low voice. "The boos didn't bother me. They didn't throw to much at me in the outfield. A peach was thrown but it went over my shoulder."

Maris otherwise just sat there, eating his sandwich, drinking his pop, sweating and apparently glad not to be bothered.

Mantle was dejected that he couldn't play. In batting practice he had slugged two balls out of the park.

Mickey said he didn't know when he would be able to play. He was unwinding yards of elastic bandages from both his knees as he said it.

Natural Gas Pipeline has offices at Chicago and Searcy.

Van Dalsem Files Answer to Suit

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Perry County Rep. Paul Van Dalsem filed Monday an answer to a taxpayer suit brought against him earlier in July questioning expense money he had received from the state.

The Chancery Court suit questioned the right of Van Dalsem to be paid $2 for two trips made as a speaker for the Legislative Council.

In his answer, Van Dalsem denied each allegation along with routine statements that the 13 plaintiffs are residence and taxpayers of the state and were qualified to bring the class action suit.

He said he had no information concerning their qualifications and thus would not admit to their validity.

Since July 22, Charles R. Garner, a Fort Smith attorney, has filed seven taxpayers suits against several state officials and state legislators.
